

Graphical Abstract. Artemisia campestris compounds inhibit HIV-1 replication through the interference with several cellular targets including viral entry and transcription showing antioxidant properties